Internship offer

Do you want to get a taste of what the commercial world is all about? Then sink your teeth into a Mondelēz international internship. We'll make you an integral part of our team, giving you a real job – with real responsibilities – from day one.

We want to make sure you get the most from your time with us. That's why once you join we'll work out ambitious goals for you. Then through the support of a buddy and regular reviews with your manager, we'll help you achieve them.

It'll be quite a challenge. After all, we're a global company working in a fast-paced, fast-changing environment. But if all goes well, you could be offered a graduate role.

Some roles may require you to be geographically mobile.

You have just come across a blog entry about Amazon.

Amazon* – evil in disguise?!

by Brian

February 09, 08:15

1 My mum's little small town bookstore, which she has been investing all her energy in for the past 20 years, has just run out of business.
And it is not because of her inability to keep up with new developments and innovations. But just like many other small stores, she has 5 fallen victim to Amazon. People just do not go to bookstores anymore.
Amazon offers everything, makes tons of money but at the same time exploits their employees and causes real life stores to close. Please everyone, value the smaller stores and buy your stuff at local shops.

You have decided to comment on Brian's blog entry. In your blog comment you should

- outline your Amazon shopping habits
- discuss the pros and cons of buying at Amazon
- suggest effective strategies for smaller shops to promote their business.

Write about 250 words.
